SIGNIFICANCE & OBJECTIVES OF THE PROGRAMME

"Dull inert cities, it is true, do contain the seeds of their own destruction and little else. But lively diverse, intense cities contain the seeds of their own regeneration, with energy enough to carry over for problems and needs outside themselves".

- Jane Jacobs

As the population in cities continues to gallop, the phenomenon of urban growth seems to have gone utterly out of control. As problems of slums, water, traffic and pollution multiply annually, it is time to seriously consider just where the cities are heading.

This training aims to bring the audience close to introspecting and analyzing the reasons for failure and the possible stepping stones for a brighter tomorrow. This will be done through case study analysis, understanding urban eco system, urban transportation and traffic planning to mention a few.

As the French word de'tour means 'Change of direction' the programme titled "The Urban Detour" will enlighten the audience as to how, we the architects, planners, students, academicians and fraternity from the industry can change the way we think and approach the urban development with unconventional and sensible thinking that will shape the cities for the better tomorrow, thereby creating a safer and cleaner future for the generations to come.
