DOCUMENTATION OF HERITAGE BUILDINGS

FROM 18TH TO 22ND SEPTEMBER 2017 AT SMMCA, NAGPUR

KEY FEATURES OF THE TRAINING PROGRAM CUM WORKSHOP

India has a large repository of built heritage which is as diverse as it is vast and as complex as the history of the country itself, and that of its people. It is through these remains of the architectural wealth of the country that multiple facets of knowledge of the past emerge. Documentation is a prerequisite and an important tool in any kind of intervention in the built heritage, be its protection, conservation or management. Keeping this in mind, five days workshop cum training program has been organized by COA in collaboration with SMMCA, Nagpur.

W.E.S.'s Smt. Manoramabai Mundle College of Architecture was established in 1992 and is celebrating 25 years of its creative existence in this session 2017-2018. Since its inception, the institution is striving hard to fulfill its social responsibilities. The institution is continuously engaged in the documentation of the heritage of the region and is recognized as a Nodal Agency of Heritage Conservation committee of Nagpur Municipal Corporation.

This training program aims to train the teachers from colleges of architecture in the process of documentation of heritage structures. During these five days of workshop cum training program, experts in this field would highlight the importance of documentation and shall discuss various methods, techniques and tools of documentation. Recent advancement in terms of software and technologies will be introduced in the workshop. Practicing conservationists of national fame and experts will share their experience in documenting monuments vis-à-vis difficulties faced in the process and methods adopted by them. Tangible as well as intangible aspects of heritage will be discussed by the conservation architects.

Participants will be introduced to the on-field experience of documentation and they will get an opportunity to document a heritage structure. Two days of the program are devoted to the field work. One heritage structure from the enlisted heritage structures of Nagpur will be measured and the documentation drawings of the same shall be prepared in the workshop under the guidance of the experts. Design of heritage walk for specific objectives will be discussed. Heritage walk to the heritage precinct is one of the key features of the workshop.
